George Moss Must Do Time for Burning Dwelling Eight Years Ago.

Years Ago.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

LEESBURG, VA. February 18.— George Moss, a white man about fifty years of age, was tried to-day and convicted of the burning of a dwelling house owned by George Carter, near Catlands. The offense was committed on May 18, 1901. The facts showing Moss's connection with the offense wero discovered very recently.
Moss was under auspicion for the burning, in December, of a barn owned by Mr. Carter containing live stock As the result of an investigation which Colonel Joseph Button. Insurance Commissioner for Virginia attarted to detect the perpetrator of the crime, evidence developed that at a preliminary hearing Moss had confessed to the burning of the dwelling house in 1901, and that he had made threats against the owners since that time. The investigations of the Bureau of Insurance, with the assistance of E.E. Garrett, Commonwealth's attorney, resulted in two indictments against Moss. He was sentenced to nine years in the pent tentiary for the first offense, and will at a subsequent term of the court be tried for the offense charged to have been committed in last December.
Colonel Button attended the trial and represented the bureau in the prosecution and conviction of Moss.

Students Will Attend.
[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
LINNCHBURG, VA., February 18.—
When the Arcadian Club, of the University of Virginia, appears here Friday night in a musical comedy, more than 300 college girls will be in the audience, which will occupy every seat in the Academy of Music. Two hundred and fifty Raudolph-Macon Woman's College girls have secured tickets, and they will go in a body. More but fifty girls from Sweet Briar Institute have also secured tickets. The indications are that the capacity will be sold before the curtain rises.

Family Escapes.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch,]
LYNCHBURG, VA., February 18.— Being awakened by burning embers failing from above him, McRae Leech, a farmer living about thirty miles west of Lynchburg, barely had time to arouse the five other sleeping members of his family and get them out before the home fell in. The family escaped in night attre, carrying one bed out, and the rest of the effects were consumed by a fire which started from a defective flue. The escape of Leech and his family was miraculous.
